The New South Carolina Constitution

The following extract from the address of Hon A G Mackey President of the Constitutional Convention of South Carolina delivered on the adjournment of that body gives an outline of the Constitution which has just been ratified by the vote of the people of that State

We here present to our constituents a Constitution in which, for the first time in the political history of this State, the great doctrine of manhood suffrage is distinctly recognized, and all the rights are secured to every citizen to which nature and nature's God have entitled him. Here have we stricken every vestige of serfdom from our institutions and that too, in so emphatic and unambiguous a way, that no doubt can be entertained of our determination that this relic of barbarism shall never again, in any form, pollute our soil. Here we have made every needful arrangement for the free education of our people so that if future legislators shall carry out in good faith the provisions which we have ordained on this vital subject in a few years the stain of ignorance which now pollutes our history will be forever obliterated, and the happy period will have arrived when no son or daughter of South Carolina will be unable to read or write. Thus have we broadly sown the seeds of public education and thus shall we, in no distant time reap the rich man's harvest of public virtue. Crime and ignorance are inseparable companions. We have stricken a heavy blow at both, and may look for the natural and inevitable result in the elevation of all our people to a social, political and religious eminence to which under the former Constitution and laws of the State, they had never attained.

Here too we have obliterated from our political system that most pernicious heresy of State sovereignty—a heresy which for nearly half a century taught by our leaders, had like an ignis fatuus led the people of South Carolina, on more than one occasion to the brink of rebellion, until there arose at length as a necessary result of this doctrine one of the most fratricidal wars that the world ever saw. The theory of a divided allegiance, and of a sovereignty within a sovereignty, alike incongruous with all the principles of political science and with the system of national power established by our fathers, has received from you a death blow. No longer, if the Constitution you have adopted should be ratified by the people, will there be any danger of a future rebellion in which the glorious flag of our common country—the flag which has often 'braved the battle and the breeze'—shall be treated by a portion of the nation with insult, and for it an ensign be substituted consecrated by no national traditions, and simply the novel insignia of a disrupted confederacy. In establishing this principle of a paramount allegiance to the National Government, you have thrown a protection around the national life for the future, and you have justified the acts of those Union men who, in the midst of a wide spread and threatening rebellion nobly stood by the doctrine you have announced and would not acknowledge that the State, however much they loved it as their home, could supplant in their affections the nation from which they received protection.

A Monster of the Air—A Very Strange Story

[Translated from El Ferr Carril of Santiago Chili March 2"]

Yesterday about 5 o'clock P M when every one had finished work at this mine (Jarau Mine) and the workmen in a group were awaiting their evening meal, we saw coming through the air a [illegible] which, at first sight, we supposed to be a cloud surrounded by the atmosphere and divided from its companions by a chance current of air.

As the object in question came nearer, filling us with a very natural feeling of surprise, we were able to note that it was an unknown creature of the air—the one of the "Thousand and One Nights" perhaps, or possibly a Leviathan of the deserts. From whence did it come? To where was it going? Its direction was from Northeast to Southwest, its flight rapid and in a direct line. On passing a short distance and over our heads we were able to note the rare structure of its body. Its great wings were clothed with a brown plumage, the head of the monster was in shape similar to that of a grasshopper, with enormous eyes wide opened and brilliant as stars and covered with something like hair or bristles, the body lengthening itself out like that of a serpent, was covered with brilliant scales, which emitted metallic sounds as the strange animal moved itself along.

Surprise resolved itself into fear among the workmen in the presence of such a strange phenomenon. The whole stock of ornithological science possessed by the good miners was in vain exhausted to find the name and qualities of the strange bird which had just passed without leaving a sign. Some assert that in three moments they perceived a detestable smell, like that given out by arsenic on being burned. Others that their senses were not offended by any unusual odor. The superstitious believe that it is the devil in person they have just seen pass while others recollect having been witness some years ago, in the same place of the passage of a similar monstrous bird.

As the whole affair is in the extreme curious we have thought it our duty to communicate it to you withholding all useless comment for the truth is we cannot explain satisfactorily to ourselves what we have seen for the first and probably the last time in our lives. Can it be possible that in the desert or the Cordilleras Nature pleases to give life to these monstrosities and rearing them in solitude for many years when they have attained sufficient strength they commence their flight through space with no other object than that of transporting themselves to other regions till death masters them, and the earth gives their skeletons to the confusion of sages?

STRANGE FREAK OF NATURE. The Yreka Union of May 9th says:

We are informed that a lake of considerable extent has been formed this spring on the line of road from to Soda Springs on the Sacramento, near the residence of Deitz. There is a low piece of land there in the form of a reservoir which heretofore has collected and held, during the rainy season considerable water. But in former seasons, as soon as the rain stopped and the snow in the vicinity was gone, the water in this pond rapidly subsided until it entirely disappeared and left the ground bare. This spring, however the waters of this pond, instead of decreasing with the cessation of the rainy season, and the disappearance of all snow in the vicinity that could add to their bulk by its melting have gone on regularly increasing, till what has heretofore been but a temporary pond seems to be swelling now to the immensity and importance of a permanent lake. Since our last rains, and since all snow in the vicinity has disappeared, this pond or lake has enlarged its area and increased its depth, spreading over the public highway till travel is compelled to seek a new road. What has caused this freak of nature? The locality of this phenomenon is but a few miles from the base of Shasta Butte and in a southwesterly direction from it. In this same connection we may remark that we have been informed on undoubted authority that the water in the "Big Spring"—some springs in Shasta valley near the western base of the Butte and from which Shasta river, particularly during the dry season, derives a large portion of its waters—is lower now than they have ever before been known even in the dryest portions of the dryest seasons. Is there any connection between the development of a new lake on the water shed of the Upper Sacramento and the drying up of the fountains that feed a tributary of the Klamath? And if so is it due to volcanic forces acting in and disturbing the very foundation of the Butte the monarch of North American mountains? The earthquake which visited us last week would suggest that volcanic or other internal forces are sporting with the ground on which we stand.

First young lady (eight summers)—"Say Georgia, when you are a great big lady and get married what will you do eh?"

Georgia—"Oh I expect I'll get up a sewing circle and go to the water cure and have lots of jewelry. What will you do Sissy?"

"Oh me! I'll have a nice young man with beautiful whiskers come to see me and my husband, you know he'll get mad and I'll cry and go to Chicago and sue for a divorce and it will all be in the papers, and the reporters will say that I am a pale and a spiritual looking lady, and my husband is a brute; that'll be so nice."

The Soilure of a Fair Name

[From Tilton's New York Independent.]

A great man's honor if unsullied is a coronet on his head to mark him a prince among men. But this diadem is not of gold that no rust can corrupt nor of jewels that no mould can blight. Borrowing its lustre solely from virtue it can be stained by any touch of baseness. Fortunate is he who amid the world's temptations keeps his honor lustrous and unspotted; wretched is he who, with deliberate purpose [illegible] his own base hands and voluntarily drowns his own head.

Mr Evarts counsel for the President has pawned his honor for a lawyer's fee. The charge is grave but true. Let us substantiate it.

A conspicuous actor in Republican conventions, a trusted adviser in Republican councils, an [illegible] orator before Republican assemblages, a once beaten but still aspiring Republican candidate for a United States Senatorship, a leading Republican member of the recent New York State Constitutional Convention—Mr Evarts was summoned to the President's defense not because he was a shining light in the legal profession but because he was an influential leader of the Republican party. The President did not look to the Bar of New York to hire its most skillful advocate but to buy its most serviceable Republican. If Mr Johnson had been in quest simply of a great lawyer, he would have forgotten Mr Evarts and remembered Mr O'Connor. But Mr O'Connor was a Democrat, and the President wanted a Republican. It was not Mr Evarts legal ability but his political influence that Mr Johnson bargained for and purchased. But Mr Evarts in thus making a traffic of what among honorable men is too precious to be an article of merchandise parted with what no man can ever sell except by throwing his honor into the bargain.

Let us do no injustice to Mr Evarts. If in looking forward to the impeachment trial he could have had his choice of sides he probably would have chosen the prosecution; he would have preferred to act with his party rather than against it. If the Managers of the impeachment desiring outside help had applied to this then bloodless and ambitious man—this frail Cassius—to fill the stalwart part performed by Gen Butler he would proudly have undertaken, however humbly he might have executed, Cæsar's task. But with a lawyer's itching to connect his name with the greatest trial in our annals Mr Evarts seeing that the emolument was great stipulated with his conscience that because he had no opportunity to serve on the right side, he should therefore be justified in serving on the wrong.

Compare Mr Evarts too pliable moral sense with the stiffer self respect of some of his nobler peers of the Bar. For example, does any one imagine that Charles O'Connor holding his present political views, could have been induced for any fee to prosecute the President? Or will any one dare to hint that William Curtis Noyes if now alive could have been tempted by any bribe to defend the President?

Look at it! Here, on one side of the Senate sit the Managers of the impeachment; would any interpretation of professional obligation or propriety have induced George S Boutwell to plead for Andrew Johnson's escape from justice? Yonder on the other side sit the counsel for the defense; would any consideration of reward or distinction have moved Mr Groesbeck, an inflexible Democrat to plead for the President's removal by a Senate of Republicans?

No! It was reserved for Mr Evarts, with a too facile conscience and a too easy virtue, to be equally ready to advocate one side or the other, not in a common suit at law but in a case without parallel in law or history, and involving not only his party's success or failure, but his country's happiness or misery.

If it be answered that a lawyer may lawfully take either side of any litigated question, we do not say nay. We have no present quarrel with any general rule of the profession, even though some of its rules are not defensible in morals. No criminal can be too guilty to deserve a fair trial, and a fair trial cannot be had without counsel for the defense. Lord Brougham has taught the bar of two countries to believe that the guiltiest man's lawyer must do his utmost to prove his client guiltless—a view which the highest toned lawyers refuse to accept. But, whether this view be correct or not our criticism of Mr Evarts is not at this point. If he had undertaken to defend the lowest villain who ever stabbed a fellow-creature in a midnight brawl his act would have had the general sanction of his profession, and should have been exempt from censure here. For he would then have been simply following the strict line of his professional duty. But, on the other hand, when Mr Evarts lent himself as a Republican, to the unpatriotic and base task of shielding a renegade President from the righteous and avenging judgment of the American people, he undertook an act outside of his professional obligation, an act shocking to the finer sense of higher toned men among his professional brethren, an act indefensible in ethics, an act of which he himself seems to have privately doubted the propriety, an act concerning which he was anxious to know the opinion of his personal friends before venturing to commit it, an act for which, in the exordium of his argument, he publicly and somewhat unprofessionally apologized, an act inconsistent with an honest fealty to the great party of which he claims to be a chief, and an act directly subversive of the interests of his country.

From our previous high estimate of Mr Evarts patriotism and public spirit we would as soon have expected to see him taking a commission from Copperheads in 1863 to Prosecute President Lincoln for high treason, as to see him taking a commission from the same source in 1868 to defend President Johnson for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

When Warren Hastings was impeached for misgoverning India, Thomas Erskine the greatest of English advocates, refused point blank to undertake the criminal's defense. This refusal was given in spite of many temptations to acceptance. The impeacher was Edmund Burke and above all other ambitions Erskine longed for an opportunity to cross swords with Burke in Westminster Hall. If the case had been of any other character than one involving the policies of opposing parties—if Erskine could have defended Hastings without compromising his own political integrity and without espousing the cause of his political opponents—he would have given his right hand for such an unequaled opportunity as the trial was to afford. But happily his willingness to serve his country proved greater than his desire to profit himself, and he refused to purchase professional distinction at the price of political treachery. If, therefore, Erskine could once more open his eloquent lips and speak, what words of rebuke and contempt he would let fall on the contrasting example of Mr Evarts, who for the sake of figuring in a famous case consents to counterwork both his party and his country.

Mr Evarts had a noble opportunity, not merely to repeat Erskine's example, but to stamp it into an abiding and irreversible precedent for the profession. If he had said "I will go as far as any lawyer may or ought for the defense of any criminal but I will never betray my party or imperil my country by championing the common enemy of both," the whole world would have applauded the utterance, and the unseduced advocate would have written his name on the scroll of the noble and the great. On the other hand, the disgraceful fact that Evarts, at one of the most critical moments of political history in derogation of his professional honor and antagonism to the public welfare hired himself for lucre to be the defender of Andrew Johnson, is as great a shock to the moral sense as if James Otis had been bribed by George III to defend the Writs of Assistance or Patrick Henry had accepted a fee to go into Court and argue the validity of the Stamp Act.

Grandson of a signer of the Declaration of Independence, Mr Evarts has put his little measure of Roger Sherman's blood to an unwonted blush by bartering for a price the safety of the Republic.

> Sing to him Robert Browning's song
> Just for a handful of silver he left us,
> Just for a ribbon to stick in his coat

As Mr Evarts has refused to be a patriot for the sake of being a lawyer let the Senate add to his loss [illegible] his cause.

THREATENING ASSASSINATION. The La [illegible] the leading Democrat paper of the Northwest has the following:

Some one says that the Radicals fear Grant will be assassinated. So he will, if elected President, and it would not do the country the least harm.

Things Change.

In the present juncture of political affairs, the Democracy resort to every means which human ingenuity can conceive for the purpose of drumming up recruits. Their [illegible] most reliable and hitherto most successful resort has been the cajolery of naturalized citizens—especially those of Irish birth. The gallant race, the noble race, the generous race is the chief burden of every Democratic song. How different this from their strain when the booming of cannon [illegible] to our Irish citizens that the country had enemies and was in danger. Then [illegible] Irishmen rallied to the defense of the land of their adoption and unfurled the stars and [illegible]. And then the Democratic papers [illegible] with such notices as the following, [illegible] by Beriah Brown, and published at San Francisco in 1864, in the then recognized [illegible] of the Democratic party in the State of California. He said:

It is well known that through the [illegible] tions of Meagher, Corcoran and other Irish [illegible] the name of the Fenian has been [illegible] to procure large numbers of recruits in Ireland, and that these have been mustered into the Federal service immediately on their arrival in New York. If any believe that General Meagher is any[illegible] more than a mercenary soldier of fortune, they are not familiar with his personal history.

When Irishmen are faithful to the land of their adoption Democracy [illegible]cenaries—when they turn, like [illegible]grates and become willing [illegible] to rend the hand that has fed them, and aid in the destruction of a Government that has furnished them an asylum from [illegible] a Government that has protected and [illegible] them, and granted them equal privileges with the proudest and freest of its citizens [illegible] Irishmen consent to this, they are the "[illegible]" race, the gallant race, the [illegible] Faugh!—Gold Hill News.

SELECTIONS FOR A NEWSPAPER.—Most people think the selection of suitable matter for a newspaper the easiest part of the business. How great an error. To look over and over fifty exchange papers daily, from which to select enough for one, especially when the question is not what shall, but what shall not be selected, is no very easy task. If any person who reads a newspaper could have edited it we should have less complaint. Not unfrequently it is the case that an editor looks over all his exchanges [illegible] thing interesting and can [illegible] nothing.

Every paper is drier than a contribution box and yet something must be had—his paper must be out with something in it, and he does the best he can. To an editor [illegible] the least care in what he selects, the writing is the easiest part of his labor. Every subscriber thinks the paper is printed for his own benefit, and if there is [illegible] him it must be stopped—it is good for nothing. As many subscribers as an editor has, so many tastes he has to consult.

One wants something very [illegible] and [illegible] thing sound. One likes [illegible] fun, frolic, and the next door neighbor [illegible] that a man of sense will put such stuff in his paper. Something spicy comes out—the editor is a blackguard. Next [illegible] thing argumentative, and the other [illegible] fool. And so, between them all the poor fellow gets the d—l. They never [illegible] that what does not please them will please the next man, but they insist that if the paper does not suit them it is good for nothing [illegible] will stop it right off.

THE ALASKA TREATY.—The people of California feel very deeply about the delay of Congress to provide funds for the completion of the Alaska purchase. For many reasons the purchase was exceedingly popular on the Pacific coast, and it is predicted with apparent [illegible] that, if Congress adjourns without voting the necessary appropriation the States of the Pacific slope will be very likely to vote against the Republican party in the next election. It is believed that the acquisition of this territory is of [illegible] importance to the commercial interests of the Pacific States, and the business classes are highly indignant at the delay. We do not [illegible] why this territory ever should have been purchased, and, in spite of all that has been said in favor of the treaty, are unable to [illegible]. But it has been made by the Executive by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, as the Constitution requires. It is now a complete bargain between the United States and Russia, and we cannot see with what justice Congress can refuse the money needed to carry it into effect. Whether there are reasons for the treaty not yet understood by the public, which fully justify the Senate in ratifying it, is not now of [illegible] consequence; it has been ratified, and the honor of the country requires that it should not be repudiated.—St. Louis Democrat.

By the election of a republican alderman to represent the eleventh ward of St. Louis, the radicals gain full control of the city council of that city. So vanishes another [illegible] democratic victory."

A Home Market

The heaviest tax on our land in [illegible] is that of transportation The Oregon farmer gets for his products about half their market value in San Francisco The problem in which the people of Oregon are most interested is that of bringing the growers of farm products and the consumer there of practically nearer to each other There are two ways of contributing to this result First by the construction of railways and the saving of cost and time in reaching a distant market and second by building up a diversified industry in our midst and thus creating a market at home for the products of the soil

It must be admitted that whatever advantages may result from the possession of facilities for reaching distant markets, the superior advantage of the agriculturist consists in finding his market near at hand In this latter case he not only saves the entire cost of transportation but prosecutes his labors under conditions every way favorable to general prosperity By diversifying industry by the introduction of manufactures and trade thus creating numerous and prosperous classes who consume agricultural products but do not cultivate the soil, general wealth is built up and agriculture is made to thrive as it never could do under other conditions Producers and consumers are side by side and a rapid motion among the products of labor [illegible], with constant increase of the power of payment. With our iron timber wool, and other materials for manufacture this diversified industry may be built up on a grand scale in Oregon and the grower of agricultural products in this State will not be compelled to content [illegible] with one-half or one third of the price at his farm which his commodities will command in their final market

But it seems as plain as any proposition can be that if by reason of the competition of foreign labor with our own in the production of manufactured goods, our home manufac[illegible] are kept back, as they surely would be under such a state of things our agricultural interests must likewise suffer and the growth of Oregon in common with that of the whole country must be infinitely re[illegible]ded. If by reason of the competition of cheap foreign labor, our manufacturers are driven out of their field, they will be thrown back on the soil for a livelihood, thus continually increasing the number of producers of agricultural products, while diminishing the number of purchasing consumers This would [illegible] reduce the reward of agricultural labor to a bare subsistence, obtained by inces[illegible] effort and with no prospect of better [illegible] The agriculturist would be compelled to rely solely on a foreign market and the distance would make the cost of transportation excessive, all of which cost the producer would be obliged to pay The manufactured goods he would receive in return would be taxed with the rates of freight and [illegible]'s profits, which would also be thrown upon the tiller of the soil who would become the purchaser of the goods Under this state of things land and labor sink in value and the laborer and land owner become continually poorer instead of growing in prosperity It is a well known fact that the farther we get from those centers where labor is diversified, the higher we find the prices of all manufactured commodities and the lower the value of land

If this subject is duly considered, we think it will be universally admitted that no class of people have so much interest in the protection of domestic industry against foreign competition as farmers. Protection is not a device to aid manufacturers merely, it is an instrument to be used in building up a grand diversified [illegible], opening new avenues of employ[illegible] providing for every class its appropriate field of labor, increasing the value of lands, building up the country in knowledge power and grandeur, and bettering the condition of all classes of our population Demagogues and [illegible] may rail against the imposts and [illegible] in that they compel the people to pay higher prices for manufactured goods, but if the system is abolished it will destroy the home market of the agriculturist and suspend the operations of the [illegible] manufacturing establishments which contribute so much to the wealth and development of the nation

The Philadelphia Press says "The Democratic party gathers under its black banner exactly the uneducated, unthinking, unambitious classes of the community, and undertakes with them to control the government of the country Just in proportion as any community cannot read or write will it vote the Democratic ticket Witness the Five Points in New York city, Bedford street in this, and the poor whites of the South in the anti rebellion days. Or let any one who reads this article take his own town, neighborhood, or township, and on examination he will find that the unskilled, boorish labor in it votes the Democratic ticket It is an invariable rule The men who never rise, who never think, who are not fit to take care of themselves—because every man who is, in this country can better his condition—are the body of the Democratic organization Is not the very existence of this party a national insult as well as a peril?" Who that saw the crowd which gave the Democratic candidates a very large share of the votes they got in this city on Monday [illegible] not recognize the truth of this description?

The Herald says that our article on James Buchanan was an elaborate assault upon a dead man," written "to gratify a cowardly malevolence" This is that paper's usual way of putting things The article alluded to was a plain and temperate statement of historical facts and without a semblance of malignity The facts stated are known to be true by every one of the many mill[illegible] of American citizens But speaking of "attacks upon "dead men," has the hyena of the Herald forgotten the fierce and blasphemous denunciations of Mr Lincoln which have frequently appeared in the columns of that paper?

Five precincts in Grant county viz Upper and Lower Canyon City John Day Marysville and Dixie, give Logan 13 majority In the same precincts Sels Union candidate for State Senator has 22 majority and Adams and Overholt for Representatives, have, respectively, 22 and 1[illegible] Other reports claim that Smith has 60 majority in the whole county, but concede the election of Sels as State Senator.

An Oregon Book

[illegible] history of Willamette University, the first established [illegible] By Rev Gustavus Hines New York [illegible] For sale by S J McCormick [illegible]

The title of this book sufficiently indicates its character It presents a descriptive outline of Oregon and climate with some fulness and much accuracy the principal geographical and other features of the State After about sixty pages of general description the counties of the State are taken up one by one and a short description given of each running through about seventy pages more This portion of the book contains some valuable information for those in other parts who are seeking information in regard to Oregon The remaining part of the book is devoted to a history of the Willamette University commencing with its origin as the Oregon Institute in 1842 The history of this institution is presented with sufficiency of detail to give a very fair idea of its struggles growth and prospects It will engage the attention of Oregon readers who are watching the development of the State and looking with interest on the progress it is making in learning and in intellectual and moral growth as well as in material wealth The book is written with little ornamentation of style and without doubt will be thought quite common place in many of its pages nevertheless as an Oregon book it is worthy of notice

On election day at John Day City Grant county a man named Hill was killed and another named Wm Way mortally wounded The affray occurred as we learn at the polls One man challenged another, and the challenged party drew a revolver and fired missing the person aimed at and killing another The challenger immediately fired back, killing, or mortally wounding, his assailant We have not been able to distinguish between the parties so as to state the particulars with more accuracy

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY OF W C RIVES An Eastern paper says

William C Rives who died at his home in Virginia April 26th, was born in that State May 11, 1793 He studied law with Thomas Jefferson having received his preliminary training at Hampden Sidney and William and Mary College In the war of 1812 [illegible] Mr Rives served as a volunteer, and attained to the rank of Colonel After serving in the Virginia Legislature he entered Congress in 1823 remaining in the House of Representatives six years Upon the election of John Quincy Adams to the Presidency he become a prominent leader in the Jackson party and in 1829 was appointed Minister to France by President Jackson In 1832 he returned home and was elected to the United States Senate He served in the Senate until 1845 In 1849 he was appointed by President Taylor for the second time Minister to France He retired from public life devoting himself to historical pursuits The first volume of his History of the Life and Times of James Madison was published in 1859 and the second volume in 1866 Mr Rives came from his retirement in 1861 to act as a member of what was called the Peace Congress and after the secession of Virginia he became a member of the Rebel Congress

Toledo, which is in the State of Ohio, comes out as a claimant for the honors of the future great city of the world The centre of the world's commerce, now represented by the city of London, is surely moving westward to New York and must come, within a hundred years, to the central plain of North America, where its immediate locality will be determined by the best position commanding the great lakes Toledo is that point Other communities can be controlled by railway lines The water channels are fixed and cannot be radically altered by human power This is the argument of her champions, who see in their flourishing town the coming metropolis of the world when our continent becomes its substantial centre—a city of which Cincinnati Cleveland and Chicago are to be, through the agency of the rail, but outlying wards

WEED AND CHASE—It is well known that Thurlow Weed has an intense hatred of Chase In a recent article he indulges in this bitter assertion

The appointment of Mr Chase to the Chief Justiceship was one of the bitterest cups commended to the lips of Mr Lincoln, who accepted it as the only means of squelching the Cleveland Convention There has never been a more unscrupulous political demagogue among all the rapacious aspirants for the Presidency, than Salmon P Chase He is opposed to impeachment for two reasons First, because it makes Mr Wade President and, second because he hopes to receive the Democratic nomination for President

The Own Correspondent of the Times at Athens dilating upon the decadence of Greece, observes that nowadays a cart cannot pass along the road from Pylos to Sparta where a carriage could travel in the days of Homer and that a mule now climbs with difficulty over rocks through which Pyrrhus led a train of elephants Even vegetation has withered and decayed Mountains once covered with forests are now bare rocks Water is sought for in vain in the channels of streams immortalized in song The oak tree has disappeared, and the forests of chestnut are yearly diminishing in extent

The science of astronomy is constantly receiving improvements A Pittsburg parson has invented mechanism by means of which the entire solar system is reproduced in miniature In the apparatus in question thirty bodies in the solar system—planets and satellites—are clearly represented in motion It is simply a fac simile of nature, but the mechanism is literally a wonder It is on exhibition in Philadelphia

MCGINLEY'S MINSTRELS.—This troupe arrived here yesterday and appeared at Oro Fino Hall last evening to a rather thin audience. Only a few hours notice having been given, this should have been expected. The performances, however, were superior to anything of the kind presented here for a long time. They have very few of the old jokes, songs or dances. Almost everything is new and, we may say, decidedly good. The troupe will play again Monday evening. Johnny Graham is with them, but was quite ill last night.

FREIGHT FOR VICTORIA.—The following is the list of freight for Victoria per steamer Geo. S. Wright, which sailed Thursday evening: 2,160 qr sks flour, 1 grist mill and 13 pkgs machinery, 120 gunnies bacon, 10 boxes pears, 166 sks middlings, 8 bbls beef, 150 bags wheat, 4 head of cattle, 60 head of sheep, 1 horse, 40 pkgs mdse, and 106 pkgs mdse for Neah Bay.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE.—The Vancouver Register mentions as a significant fact that "Mr. W. S. Ladd of Portland, has been investing largely in real estate in and around Walla Walla of late. One purchase consisting of 640 acres of land lying two miles northwest of the town of Walla Walla, and on the line of the proposed railroad from Walla Walla to Wallula."

STILL DOWN.—Yesterday the telegraph line was down at the crossing of the Willamette below Milwaukie. It was broken by a vessel going up to Oswego. The day before yesterday the line was down South of Eugene, and the day before that, south of Jacksonville. Whether it will ever be up again through its whole length seems at present a little uncertain.

WILL CONTEST.—We are informed that the Union candidates of Clackamas county, who were defeated by the official canvass, will contest. More than twice the number of illegal votes requisite to oust the Democratic candidates elected have already been spotted. The contest will undoubtedly give every office in the county to the Republicans.

OREGON PRODUCTS.—The following were the receipts yesterday: Per steamer Senator, 2,600 qr sks flour.

Per steamer Wenat, 9 rolls leather, 4 boxes and 2 hlf bbls unspecified, 21 sks flour, 347 sks oats, 1 box eggs.

Per steamer Alert 2,120 qr sks flour, 151 sks oats, 17 hlf bbls lard, 14 boxes eggs, 10 gunnies bacon, 2 bales furs.

TELEGRAPH MATTERS.—We learn that the Dalles telegraph line will be in working order to the Dalles early next week. We are also informed that the people between Dalles and Boise City are manifesting such an interest in the proposed Oregon and Idaho line as leads to the belief that it can and will be constructed this summer.

NEW EXPRESS COMPANY.—We hear that the Pacific Union Express Co. will extend their business to this and other points at the north, and that an office will be opened here as soon as a suitable building can be obtained. The company propose to do a general forwarding, collection and commission business.

POLICE COURT.—There were two or three cases of assault and battery tried in the Recorder's Court yesterday. In one of the cases, the assaulting party was fined $5 and costs, and in the other $50 and costs. There are more cases of a similar sort to be tried this morning.

FENIAN GUARD'S PICNIC.—The Fenian Guards do not propose to give up their picnic, nor to postpone it till 1869. They now intend to have it on Tuesday the 9th inst. We hope the clerk of the weather will be reasonable this time and give the Guards a fair day.

THE ANNUAL PICNIC of the Sunday Schools of Trinity Church and St. Stephen's Chapel will take place to-day. The children of Trinity Parish, with parents, teachers and friends, are requested to be at the Sunday school room at 9 o'clock A. M.

HONORS.—This ancient and honorable order will hold a meeting this evening at the Council Chamber, at 7 o'clock precisely, to take steps in reference to the celebration on the coming Fourth of July.

JUBILEE.—This evening is the time appointed for the big Democratic drunk in honor of the Bull Run victory of last Monday. Some of the species have been in a fitting condition for it during the entire week.

CHERRIES.—We are indebted to a very considerate friend for a nice treat of cherries last evening. If there is anything in the world we like better than a luscious bunch of cherries, it is—two bunches.

EXCAVATIONS FOR BUILDING.—The contract for excavating for the basement of the new brick on the corner of Stark and First streets, has been let, we learn, and the work will be commenced on Monday.

LECTURE.—At Oro Fino Hall, Sunday evening, 3 o'clock P. M. Subject, "The Harmonial Philosophy, or the Physical Nature of Man," by W. Dickerson, M. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.—The teachers and scholars of the Episcopal Sunday School, are to have a picnic to-day at one of the groves near East Portland.

TO BE INCORPORATED.—We learn that the Young Men's Christian Association of Portland is about to be incorporated, under the laws of the State.

COMING HOME.—We learn that ex Gov. Geo. L. Curry is expected to arrive soon at home—probably by the next steamer.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—This court will be in session again to-day pursuant to adjournment.

B. B. PRACTICE.—The Spartans will play this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

MEDICAL.—Dr. H. A. Bodman, a physician of 25 years' experience in the Eastern States, has opened an office in this city. See his card.

A Wisconsin paper "takes great pleasure" in recommending a grave stone cutter to its readers.

SPLENDID SUMMER HATS.—The Express Hats seem to be more in demand; since this fine weather has set in than ever before; also the Neglige and Long Branch Hats, of which Meussdorffer has just received a new lot.

Kansas does not know what to do with all the people who want to settle in that State.

THE BROADWAY STYLES OF BOYS' HATS received per last steamer, and for sale by J. A. Daly, 103 Front street.

TO THOSE IN WANT OF PHOTOGRAPHS, we would say that now is a first-rate time to visit Buchtel's Gallery, where the latest and finest styles may be had—J. H. Montgomery, operator.

H. W. KAFFLEYE—Dear Sir: I take pleasure in stating that I regard your Map of Oregon the most accurate that I have seen published, and in fact the only one that gives anything like a correct idea of Eastern Oregon and its surroundings.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
Your ob't serv't,
GEORGE CROOK,

WHEN THE POPULATION OF SAN FRANCISCO increases so rapidly, how is it the number of deaths decreases? Simply because that excellent Tonic, "Lacour's Sarsapariphere Bitters" have been introduced. Like the lighthouse to the mariner they are the guide to those who use them to outride the breakers of disease in the journey of life.

To them was awarded the FIRST PREMIUM at the late State Fair. The committee highly and especially recommended them for their medicinal qualities.

CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers, Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels;
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

A Perilous Adventure in the Far West

A SURVEYING PARTY RUNNING THE GAUNTLET OF FIRE

A Virginia City (Nevada) paper says: From a report to Surveyor General Stafford from A. A. Hatch, now surveying in the Humboldt country, we [illegible] the following, [illegible] through tules, with a [illegible] flame [illegible] guarding on the party [illegible] through the dry tops of the tule forest. The communication is dated Lovelock's Station, Big Meadows, Humboldt county, March 31:

"While crossing the tule on my way to the standard corner to the guide meridian an incident occurred which I shall never forget. At the point where I crossed the tule is about three miles wide and the ice was about fourteen inches thick, rendering a safe bridge for me and my party to pass over. I had entered this tule perhaps a mile when [illegible] my men, who were a short distance behind, very foolishly set fire to the tule and canebrake, the latter being some twelve or fifteen feet high. In a few moments a vast sheet of flame was roaring high in the air directly in our rear, the wind at the time being from the west. Thinking to outflank the fire, I directed my driver to go north. We had not gone far in that direction when the wind changed from west to southwest. I then directed the driver to go southeasterly. By this time matters began to look serious. The fire had extended its front considerably and seemed to be gaining upon us rapidly. The flames appeared almost overhead, and the coals and sparks fell around and upon us in a shower of fire. A fire in advance was suggested for obtaining a burnt district to stop upon, but this, on account of the changeable nature of the wind, I concluded to be injudicious and liable to incur a new danger.

[illegible] I considered the flank movement the only one practicable. I climbed upon the high load of camp fixtures and bedding, when, by standing up, I could see over the canebrake and kept the driver in the right course. Every man now seemed to realize his perilous position, and instinctively put his shoulder to the wagon, which was fairly shoved upon the horses, but the faithful animals could go no faster than a walk through that thick matted tule and tall, stubborn canebrake. Upon the horses depended our safety. They were our [illegible] our only means of escape from a terrible death, for no man could make any progress through that infernal jungle except in the [illegible] the horses and wagon. The few words spoken were as hollow as from the grave, [illegible] scarcely audible above the roaring of the flames and the crackling tule and canebrake, as they were beaten down by the horses and wagon. The expression upon each countenance was that of perfect terror; but when the hope of escape was nearly exhausted, [illegible], we suddenly and unexpectedly emerged from the tule into an open and clear field of ice, perfectly free and secure from danger, the red flames sweeping across our track, at the time about one hundred and eighty feet in our rear.

This sudden transition from danger so imminent and terrible, to perfect safety, had a singular and amusing effect upon some of our party. Men, who a few seconds before had been almost weeping with fear, now gave way to the wildest and most extravagant expressions of joy. Bright tears glistened upon the cheeks of [illegible]; a loud laugh from one, a hurrah from another, and one sanguine individual performed evolutions that would do honor to a professional gymnast. As for myself, I was glad we had got out of the bulrushes.

[illegible] the Humboldt range about five miles south of the fifth standard line and [illegible] no wagon ever crossed before, I know. I had a very rough time of it for about ten days. I spent two days in looking for the corner, being about nine miles from camp, but found it all right.

THE GRAVES AT ANDERSONVILLE PRISON CEMETERY.—[illegible] 1,000 yards northwest from the [illegible] and about 1,200 from the railroad [illegible] is the cemetery, in which are buried about 14,000 men. The first 800 were buried in coffins; the [illegible] 1,900 were covered with boards and [illegible] that number to 12,694 the bodies were buried shoulder to shoulder, in trenches about three feet deep and six feet wide. About 1,000 [illegible] have been brought here from Macon, Americus, Columbus, Eufaula, Albany, and other points in the vicinity. The various states of the Union are represented as follows, viz: Alabama, [illegible]; Connecticut, 291; Delaware, 45; District of Columbia, 14; Illinois, 910; Indiana, [illegible]; Iowa, 226; Kansas, 5; Kentucky, 456; Louisiana, 1; Maine, 237; Maryland, 194; Massachusetts, 774; Michigan, 656; Minnesota, 58; Missouri, 112; New Hampshire, 144; New Jersey, 179; New York, 2,534; North Carolina, 17; Ohio, 1,071; Pennsylvania, 1,825; Rhode Island, 74; Tennessee, 780; Vermont, 279; Virginia, 279; Wisconsin, 254; United States Army, 516; United States Navy, 99. Six men who murdered the sick were hung by their comrades—they [illegible] separate from the others. Three [illegible] were discovered among the prisoners, and are buried among the soldiers. Each body in the cemetery has a numbered stake with regiment, &c., with the date of death. The cemetery is on [illegible] of ground, and is in some places soft and [illegible].

A good story is told that an officer who managed [illegible] at the depot of his regiment during the whole of the Crimean war has lately obtained six month's leave of absence to go and visit the graves of his brother officers who had died [illegible] the war.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

[illegible] REVIEW

PORTLAND, June 6, 1868.

[illegible] the latest date from New York, gold closed [illegible] and San Francisco [illegible] 71¼@72. [illegible] New York, [illegible] dull at $2 75@$2 85. Flour dull [illegible].

[illegible] from San Francisco is of an advance in the [illegible] and wheat and a decidedly better feeling [illegible] temporary and may be [illegible] the new crop shall begin to pour in. Flour is [illegible] $6 62½@$7 75 for superfine and extra [illegible]. Owing to a brisk competition between the shippers and millers to secure the small lots of wheat [illegible] in the market, prices have jumped up to $2 40@$2 50 per cental. This improved condition of the market is expected to continue till harvest when prices will be likely to drop again. The papers of the interior represent the prospects for a large crop as unusually promising. Oregon wheat if placed immediately in the market [illegible] good prices, but the California harvest is so close at hand that buyers here will have no time to go into the [illegible] and ship any considerable amount before the San Francisco market will be filled with California wheat of the new crop. The improved tone of the Bay market, therefore, can have little effect upon prices in Oregon.

Manufacturers and dealers in flour, here, do not anticipate any advantage from the advance of prices in San Francisco. During the week, leading brands have been selling at a reduced figure. We quote Imperial, Standard, Vaughn's, Magnolia, etc., at $6 00; good country brands at $5@$5 50; other brands nominally as last week. The arrivals of produce during the week were very small and the shipments correspondingly limited. If there were any wheat offering a little better price might be obtained.

In the merchandise market there is nothing new to note beyond a very dull trade rendered unusually dull by the excitements attendant upon the elections. The transactions of the week were scarcely larger than during the dullest weeks of the winter season.

The following is our report of freight rates from Umatilla, for the week ending June 1st:

Freights during the past week or ten days have been very dull, as we have had [illegible] to ship. There can be had an abundance of transportation at the following rates:

Horse and mule teams to Owyhee at 6c bar or L T at 7½c
[illegible] to Idaho City [illegible] bar or L T at 7c
Pioneer, Placerville & Centerville [illegible] 15c
Horse and mule teams to Boise City [illegible] bar or L T at 7½c
Ox teams to above camps at same rates in dust
Ox, horse and mule teams to Clark's creek & Shasta 3¼c dust to Auburn & Baker city 3c dust
to Union & LaGrande 2½c dust

There are a plenty of pack-trains now in camp, but it does not pay them to load at the above rates of freight. Most of them are anxious to sell.

Medical.

DR. J. C. YOUNG,

Medical and Surgic-l INSTITUTE.

- CONSULTATION, IN ALL CASES FREE
- CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED.
- IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRECY MAINTAINED.

The above rules, [illegible] by Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, and which have done [illegible] to secure the reputation of this Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confidence.

There is nothing of more importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and [illegible] give assurance of proper and delicate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in [illegible] to the invariable success which has marked the career of the Institute in the seventeen years of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to that terrible scourge,

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping with the insidiousness the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has earned so enviable a reputation.

READ! READ

I am aware that by dwelling upon a subject as the decay of manly vigor [illegible] vital principle of life, the ignorant may [illegible] tive; but the desire to point out to [illegible] guish and decay the true cause of their [illegible] great an incentive to be forced into [illegible] tended the terrible disease of Seminal [illegible] no but the practical specialist who [illegible] treatment can tell but its [illegible] be most inexperienced by noting the [illegible] Weakness of the back and [illegible] feelings, loss of muscular power [illegible] cold feet or hands, accompanied by [illegible] consumption, short breath [illegible] sion to society, confusion of the [illegible] nightly emissions; colorless; [illegible] least excitement; trembling; palpitation [illegible] regular appetite; variable temper, etc.

YOUNG MAN, if you experience any of the symptoms enumerated above, pause [illegible] present is the golden [illegible] health and happiness. You may feel [illegible] you have ever practiced the vice of [illegible] abominable [illegible] you have the [illegible] system and their [illegible] or later death [illegible] ground, leaving you a [illegible] disease that declares itself [illegible] est danger; for while the [illegible] affection of the Heart, Lungs, [illegible] tions, he sinks into a general debility that [illegible] to the list of the victims of the [illegible] Weakness.

See in the best form and [illegible] victim of the [illegible] vice! Mark the destructive complaint in the hollow ch[illegible]

Drowsiness is one of the [illegible] first it is easily shaken off, but it grows [illegible] great disinclination to pursue his regular [illegible] mind [illegible] and restless days of depression.

It is the nature of the complaint [illegible] changes that leave the poor victim but [illegible] In a single [illegible] it may [illegible] hopes and blast your honest aspirations.

Marriage is sought by a natural [illegible] This is an error of the first [illegible] unprepared for the [illegible] truly fails and he finds [illegible] from which there is but the slight [illegible] Or if the marriage should result in [illegible] distorted, decrepid, and [illegible] ble to both sexes, whether married or [illegible] times of life.

Do not delay if you feel any of the [illegible] rible complaint, or if your acts have [illegible] to them, but by instant application [illegible] only hope of health and [illegible] mercury or other [illegible] drugs [illegible] time, always guaranteed, and full and [illegible] stored.

The afflicted are [illegible]

PERSONS AFFLICTED [illegible]

[illegible]

During the seventeen years since the [illegible] the Institute, the number of cases [illegible] been treated show a record [illegible] in the world, and the [illegible] the course of treatment,

Without Mercury or other [illegible] Drugs,

Shows conclusively the use of [illegible] called for, but actually dang[illegible] established medical principle [illegible] by entering the blood, ruin the [illegible] life.

The Doctor effects a cure in [illegible] and finds no difficulty in curing those of [illegible] without submitting the patient to such [illegible] [illegible] upon him the slightest [illegible] neglect his business, whether [illegible] diet need not be changed. Cures [illegible] no pay required.

IMPORTANT TO [illegible]

When a female is in trouble or afflicted [illegible] requires medical or surgical [illegible] be. Where is there a physician competent [illegible] relief and whose respectable standing in [illegible] commend him to the confidence of the [illegible] Doctor, understanding how imperatively [illegible] requirements are, feels called upon to [illegible] calling the attention of the afflicted to the [illegible] been Professor of Obstetrics and F[illegible] ty years, and is fully qualified to [illegible] both medically and surgically, not [illegible] but in as thorough a manner as [illegible] —both in hospitals and private families [illegible] them from the hands of the unq[illegible] designing. Therefore, families can rely upon [illegible] a father. All in affliction can find in him one [illegible] and sympathize with and befriend them in [illegible] in whose secrecy the utmost confidence [illegible] Consultation by letter or otherwise, free. Cures [illegible] teed in all weakness and trouble [illegible] Private apartments are provided, when [illegible] be had all the advantages of an [illegible] Doctor and the most skillful and [illegible]

To CORRESPONDENTS.—Persons, either [illegible] residing in the interior, are often deterred from [illegible] the Doctor because they cannot spare the time, [illegible] the expense of a visit to the city. To [illegible] that a plain statement of the [illegible] bearing upon the complaint, will [illegible] for them so that they can be cured at home [illegible] have any false delicacy about writing [illegible] nature of their complaint [illegible] seen by no one except the Doctor, and will be [illegible] the utmost confidence and either be [illegible]
